

Bowling event for SAVIS in Burlington

Published on Feb 09, 2007

A groovy fundraiser featuring an afternoon of bowling and plenty of prizes will be held later this month in support of Sexual Assault and Violence Intervention Services of Halton (SAVIS).

The SAVIS 'Incredibowl '07 -- That '70s Bowl' will take place February 17 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Burlington Bowl.

The facility will be transformed into a '70s time warp featuring cosmic bowling under a mirror ball to favourite tunes.

This is a chance for groups from the community to deck themselves out in their hippest '70s threads and win prizes and contests based on bowling skills, pledges raised and best team costumes.

The event, hosted by K-Litefm's Sunni Genesco, will include 48 teams from Halton consisting of four to six players on each.

There'll be food for hungry bowlers, and each participant will be automatically entered in the grand prize draw.

Bowlers are invited to collect pledges beforehand.

People can also get involved by registering a team, sponsoring a lane, donating a prize or volunteering at the event.

All funds will go toward the services provided by SAVIS, which is entering its 20th year of service and operates a 24-hour crisis line, in-person counseling, education programs and more.
